The ASF's Mission

The Apache Software Foundation (ASF) is a US 501(c)(3) charitable organization.

Its mission is to provide Open Source software for the public good.

We do this by providing services and support for many like-minded software project communities of individuals who choose to join the ASF.

A neutral space where projects which are independent from any corporate influence can prosper and create Open Source software for the public good. Under the business-friendly Apache License 2.0

The ASF is the Switzerland of Open Source

By popular demand (two people – that's about 100% of my readership!), here's an essay similar to my lightning talk of last week at ApacheCon: The Apache Software Foundation is the Switzerland of Open Source.

This is based on my rough notes and failing memory, so that won't be exactly the same thing.

Did you know that I am an ASF analyst? I didn't know either, found out last week at James Governor's great keynote. You had to be there ;-)

So, tongue firmly set in cheek, here we go!

Nobody can pull the plug…

Apache Spark Trademark Guidelines

- Software products, whether commercial or open source, are not allowed to use "Spark" in their name, except in the form "powered by Apache Spark" or "for Apache Spark" when following these specific guidelines.
  - Names derived from "Spark", such as "sparkly", are also not allowed.
  - Company names may not include "Spark".
  - Package identifiers (e.g., Maven coordinates) may include "spark", but the full name used for the software package should follow the naming policy above.
- Written materials must refer to the project as "Apache Spark" in the first and most prominent mentions. Materials from software vendors or software-related service providers must follow stricter guidelines, including using the full project name "Apache Spark" in more locations, and proper trademark attribution on every page.
- Logos derived from the Spark logo are not allowed.
- Domain names containing "spark" are not permitted without written permission from the Apache Spark PMC. To request permission, email private@spark.apache.org and CC trademarks@apache.org. (Details)
- Events, books, and merchandise have their own guidelines. Please refer to the ASF trademark policy and FAQ for details.
